

Safety for parents

Helping parents online

Emails and links

As we know, you like to click on links and open emails, but sometimes you need to be very cautious of scams. Our advice is not to click on links or emails from anonymous users; this is because they probably will be trying put a virus into your computer or collect private information. This is why you should not put private information into any emails or links. If there is no padlock it means its unsafe.

Gaming

If you start gaming than you will start getting friend requests from random people and you won't know what to do. If you've met them make sure you can trust them. Also if someone sends an offensive message, block them or report them or ask for advice.

Don't meet people from online in real life

Meeting people online in real life can be very dangerous because they may say they are your age but are a lot older or younger than you. They can even be looking to get something out of you or trying to get something about your friend out of you.

Treat others how you want to be treated

You should treat others how you want to be treated because if you cyber bully someone than you will get karma and someone will end up bullying you, whereas if you treat people nicely than the majority of people will like you and treat you better than if you were to bully someone.

Bullying

Don't talk to random people

You might think you know people but they could just be pretending. They could try and trick you into doing something they want or who knows what they could try.
